Luke Marshall Sports Scholar

Luke Marshall, a Sport & Exercise Science student, currently represents Northern Ireland playing for the Knights Wheelchair basketball team and is aiming to make it as a member of Team GB in the Paralympic Games. As a wheelchair user the costs involved in his sport are significant. Luke is very passionate about his sport and his ambition to succeed is evident.

“Despite my disability, I have always fully participated in and enjoyed all sport alongside my able-bodied friends. This Sports Scholarship helps me pay for flights to competitions, new tyres and if any money is left it will also help me save for my dream chair, a lightweight Elite sports chair. This chair would enable me to play at the highest competitive level.”

Michele Cassidy Gateway Scholar

Michele is studying part-time for a BSc in Social Work. She was delayed in commencing her university journey as she was caring for her mother, who sadly passed away last year. She is now responsible for her younger siblings, including her brother who is registered autistic with a severe learning disability and is non-verbal. Michele also has her own 7 year old son to care for. She is extremely ambitious and is determined to reach her goal to make a real difference to vulnerable people.

“This Scholarship has been used to provide childcare for when I am studying, which is such a relief! But it offers more than the much-needed financial support; it has been a real boost to my confidence and morale and has inspired me to continue pursuing my goals. Thank you.”

Donations to the American Friends of Ulster University Inc. will make a real difference to students across all campuses by:

Opening up opportunities to learning – helping people with ability and drive, especially those from low income families, to go to university, and providing opportunities to enable students to reach their full potential;

Helping students through hard times – providing grants in times of crisis when family, health or financial problems threaten a student’s education;

Supporting the Library – ensuring our learning spaces and resources are right up to date, funding more books and journals, digitizing existing texts and renting laptops to students;

Rewarding excellence – we are committed to providing first class teaching in world class facilities, unlocking students’ potential, raising their aspirations and sending them out into the world as well rounded, employable and high achieving citizens. These awards encourage ambitious and creative thinking, rewarding individual talent, entrepreneurship and creativity.

Why support the American Friends of Ulster University?

The American Friends of Ulster University Inc. was established in 1999 by supporters of the University. Its mission is to support higher education in Northern Ireland and the USA, with a particular interest in supporting the work of Ulster University.

I give back because...

Jessica Myers, MA History, 2005 from the Belfast campus, is a monthly donor to the Ulster University Student Fund:

'I support the American Friends of Ulster University Inc because it is an easy, pain-free way for me to give back to the University that gave so much to me. My time there changed my life and I hope to help other students have that same opportunity.

Jessica lives in Washington DC and is Voting Systems Certification Specialist at the US Election Assistance Commission.
